Dr Dominique de Gasquet,

a university researcher in comparative literature, and latterly the French Embassy's Attaché culturel et scientifique in Melbourne, will be leaving us for a new posting in August. In the French-speaking community, we have benefitted greatly from her energy and her imagination, the shared projects she has initiated and the networks she has created. As her final contribution to French cultural life in Melbourne before her departure, she has generously offered to give a talk on her special research interests in the literary exchanges between two major writers of twentieth century France and Japan, Marguerite Yourcenar and Mishima Yukio.

The talk will be delivered in French

Time:	5.30 pm
Date:	Thursday 9th August 2007
Location:	Harold White Theatre, Arts Centre The University of Melbourne (Corner Swanston & Grattan Streets – Entry from Swanston Street)
